Assalamu 'alaykum wa rahmatullahi wa barakaatuh.

As we commemorate the blessed occasion of Eid'l Adha, I extend my heartfelt greetings to our fellow Muslims across the Bangsamoro Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao and around the world.

Eid'l Adha is a time to remember the profound faith and sacrifice of Prophet Ibrahim (Alayhis-Salaam)—a story that teaches us the true meaning of submission, obedience, and trust in the divine will of Allah (SWT). It is also a time of reflection on the sacrifices we make for the betterment of our families, our communities, and the generations to come.

As Minister of Education of the Bangsamoro, I am constantly reminded that the pursuit of knowledge is a form of sacrifice and service. We carry the sacred responsibility of shaping minds and nurturing values that uphold peace, justice, and moral governance. Just as Prophet Ibrahim's sacrifice was an act of faith, our work in education must be grounded in our faith and commitment to the future of the Bangsamoro.

Let us draw strength from this sacred occasion to continue investing in education, empowering our youth, and promoting a culture of compassion, discipline, and unity. May this Eid inspire us to uphold the ideals of inclusive, transformative, and faith-rooted learning for every Bangsamoro child.

Taqabbalallahu minna wa minkum.

Eid Mubarak to all.
